

Travel Security Training

Living in a global village, in times when national boundaries are blurred and lands distant from each other culturally and geographically becoming more available, travelling seems to be easier and more enjoyable. Although access to different regions is popular and common, there are still different types of antagonism growing in various parts of the world and sometimes the mental boundaries between cultures seem to be impossible to cross. However travel is becoming easier due to technological developments, it is still associated with various types of threats. Despite of this very often we do not pay enough attention on preparing ourselves accurately for the journey.

Taking under consideration a lot of business travels...

More and more Polish citizens travel on business reasons and often the direction of these trips are high-risk countries. Risks associated with it are becoming a very important challenge for large companies, because life and health of their employees is priceless. Very often we can hear about this problem in media which report the kidnappings of Western nationals living and working in high-risk countries. But do we realize that this problem may happen also to our employees going for the trips all over the world?

How to defend against this and how to travel safely minimizing the risk of exposure to danger?

SASMA EUROPE offers security training for travelers.

Program of this training was created in accordance with our international experience, which applies to multinational companies' safety and security policies and is based on the best practice from companies with remarkable level of security awareness. Completion of the course is confirmed by the appropriate certificate signed by SASMA EUROPE.

Our trainers present the political situation and business realities which need to be confronted by firms operating in high risks countries markets as well as they quote many examples illustrating the risks of travelling.

Despite of general information, on customer request we may prepare detailed reports illustrating security standards in the countries which you choose, taking into account the specific threats you may meet during the trip.

Standard training lasts about 3 hours, however it can be extended to customer request for specific safety and security issues relating to the selected country.

If you have any inquiries, please do not hesitate and send them to the following email address:
security@sas-ma.org

